

PRIVACY NOTICE

For job applicants

This notice describes how BFS Group Limited, (a company registered in England and Wales, registration number 239718) collects and uses personal information about you during the application and recruitment process, in accordance with UK data protection laws (The Data Protection Act 2018 and Regulation (EU) 2016/679 as applied in the United Kingdom 'UK GDPR') . This notice may be amended or updated at any time.

The personal information we hold about you

Personal data, or personal information, means any information about an individual from which that person can be identified. It does not include data where the identity has been removed (anonymous data). There are "special categories" of more sensitive personal data which require a higher level of protection, such as information about a person's health, sexual orientation, or criminal convictions.

We may collect store and use the following categories of personal information about you:

- information relevant to our recruitment decision, including CVs, application forms, interview notes, results of pre-employment checks, references, criminal record checks (which will include your name, age/date of birth, address, email address and telephone number);
- information relating to your right to work: including passport information, visa details, immigration permissions, travel information;
- information relating to reasonable adjustments which may be required to accommodate a disability;
- equal opportunities monitoring information

We collect this personal information either directly from you or from third parties including applicant tracking system providers, employment agencies, former employers, other referees, qualifications bodies, or background check agencies or publicly available sources e.g. LinkedIn.

How we use your personal information

We process this information for the following purposes:

- recruiting employees who have the appropriate skills, qualification and experience for each role;
- ensuring employees have the right to work in the UK;
- complying with our duty to make reasonable adjustments;
- monitoring equality of opportunity and diversity in the recruitment process.

We process your personal information because it is necessary for our legitimate interests of operating our business efficiently; maintaining standards of service to our clients and improving diversity of opportunity, or because it is necessary for us to comply with our legal obligations.

In addition, where we process any information which falls within "special categories" (which may include health information, trade union information, criminal record details and information about race, ethnic origin, religion or sexual orientation), this is because it is necessary for complying with our employment law obligations, or for exercising our employment law rights, or for monitoring and improving equal opportunities. In certain circumstances we may process special categories of personal information where it is needed in relation to legal claims, or in order to protect your interests where you are not capable of giving consent.

We'll only collect information about criminal convictions if it is appropriate, given the nature of the role, and where we are legally able to do so. We'll collect information about criminal convictions as part of the recruitment process, or we may be notified of such information directly by you in the course of you working for us. Please contact People Services if you require further information on this.

If you fail to provide certain information when requested, in some circumstances we may not be able to continue with the recruitment process.

Automated processing

Our online application process includes certain questions for certain driver and warehouse roles (relating to right to work and driving licences) and the answers to these questions are processed using automated means. This processing will assess whether the candidate meets essential requirements for the role, following which the application may be rejected.

Apart from this initial stage of the application process for these roles, we do not take decisions about you using solely automated means.

In addition we may use psychometric testing for certain roles. This will only be used to complement the decision-making process rather than being utilised as the sole selection method/criteria.

Who we share your information with

We share your personal information with third party service providers who assist with our recruitment process. These providers include our: payroll provider; pension provider; benefits broker; insurance providers; training providers; background checking agents; recruitment agency services provider; applicant tracking systems provider; psychometric testing provider; company car providers; occupational health provider; HMRC; private medical health provider.

Transferring information outside UK /the EEA

Where needed in order to enable us to achieve the objective of our processing the data as described above we may transfer your personal information to third parties outside the United Kingdom and/or European Economic Area (EEA). Where we do so we will only transfer your personal information to third parties outside the UK/EEA if that third party (a) is situated in a country that has been confirmed by the ICO and/or European Commission to provide adequate protection to personal information, or (b) has agreed (by way of written contract) to provide all protections to your personal information as required by data protection legislation.

How long we keep personal information

For successful candidates, we retain personal information from the recruitment process for the periods outlined in our staff data collection notice which we give to new staff on joining.

For unsuccessful candidates recruitment information will automatically be removed from our system after 12 months unless the candidate confirms that they want us to retain the information so that they may be considered for future vacancies, or where we have a business reason for keeping this information for longer than 12 months (for example, where we may need information in case of legal proceedings).

Your rights and responsibilities

It is important that the personal information we hold about you is accurate and current. Please keep us informed if your personal information changes during the recruitment process.

You have the right to request us to:

- give you details of your personal information and a copy of it (commonly known as a "data subject access request");
- correct your personal information if it is inaccurate;
- delete your personal information in certain circumstances, for example where we no longer need the information;
- stop, or limit, our processing of your personal information in certain circumstances, for example where you believe that we do not have a legal basis to do so;
- send you, or another organisation, certain types of personal information about you in a format that can be read by computer.

You may also withdraw your consent to our processing your personal information, where our processing is based on your consent.

You will not have to pay a fee to access your personal information (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request is clearly unfounded or excessive. Alternatively, we may refuse to comply with the request in such circumstances.

Further information

If you have any questions about how we process your personal information please contact the Human Resources department peopleteam@bidfresh.co.uk. We hope that we will be able to address any questions or concerns you may have. However, you also have the right to make a complaint at any time to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO), the UK supervisory authority for data protection issues.